In June, 2006, The United States House and Senate considered an amendment to the US Constitution that would grant Congress the power to ban flag burning. An amendment was passed by the House of Representatives, but was narrowly defeated in the US Senate: it failed to pass by a single vote. The text of the failed amendment proposal read:

_The Congress shall have power to prohibit the physical desecration of the flag of the United States._

- If you were a US Senator, would you have provided the single vote necessary to pass the above amendment, sending it to the states for ratification as the 28th Amendment to the US Constitution? Why or why not?
